- Maintain BUY and THB75.50 TP (DCF), 45% upside and c.2% yields. CP All's current share price may drop on negative sentiment over market concerns regarding Makro's link to an illegal frozen pork import case (although there is no impact to its current business operations) and slower-than-expected Chinese tourist arrivals. We still expect sound earnings growth outlook in 4Q23 and 2024. Its P/E valuation (<-1SD) is attractive.
- Favourable SSSG. 4Q23 QTD SSSG remained positive (+3% YoY) for the convenience store (CVS) wing, Makro (+3%) and Lotus's (+5%). Spending momentum in Oct-Nov 2023 was close to 3Q23's levels and may strongly improve during Dec 2023's festive period. CPALL targets 2024 CVS SSSG to expand in tandem with Thailand's economic growth (c.+3%). Support factors include: i) Being a beneficiary from a potential minimum wage hike to CVS sales, ii) rising international tourist numbers, and iii) the Government's consumption stimulus measures.
- New stores on track. CPALL is retaining the target to open 700 new CVS stores annually in 2024, focusing on larger-sized stores to enlarge the average ticket size and number of items/basket. Capex for CVS, Makro, and Lotus's could be THB12-13bn/business unit.
- Growing overseas CVS. CPALL currently runs c.80 CVS outlets in Cambodia (Plan: Open 30-40 new stores pa) and two in Laos (target: Opening 2-3 stores pa). 80% of merchandise in both countries' stores comprise food items, with strong sales in ready-to-eat food products. It may spend a bit longer than one year to attain breakeven levels for these stores while country operations could turn profitable in the following 2-3 years.
- Seeking wider profit margins. All businesses managed their product mixes and carried high-GPM products to improve profitability. The CVS wing will add more fresh food items (eg ready-to-eat food), collaborations with third parties, and seasonal products. Makro is also on a move to offer more items, including premium products for hotel, restaurant, and catering or HoReCa customers. Finance costs are set to fall in 2H23-2024 based on: i) Completion of its CP Axta (CPAXT TB, NR) subsidiary converting foreign currency-denominated loans to THB, and ii) maturity of CPALL's older tranche long-term debentures, which will lead to some finance cost savings next year. Note: We currently forecast its interest expenses to fall 12% in 2024 with 0.3ppts higher NPMs. We still think CPALL's core profit will expand YoY and QoQ in 4Q23 and become 2023's highest quarterly earnings – driven by all CVS, Makro, and Lotus's units as it is the high season for retailers. Lower electricity and finance costs are also a boon.
- Valuations. We applied an 8% ESG premium to the intrinsic value to derive our DCF-based TP of THB75.50. The recent share price decline on negative sentiment has made CPALL's valuation more attractive, trading at 27x 2023F P/E (-1SD) and 23x 2024F P/E (-1.5SD). This may be an opportunity to hold more positions in the counter.

E: EXCELLENT

CPALL's CVS business is committed to supporting operations based on the 7 Go Green strategy that comprises four approaches: Green Stores, Green Logistics, Green Packaging, and Green Living. It has achieved targets under this strategy, such as the One Less Bag a Day project to reduce plastic bag usage. It has also improved the efficiency of electrical appliances at its CVS to reduce greenhouse gas emissions. It is steadfast in promoting plastic waste recycling in product manufacturing.

S: EXCELLENT

CPALL has implemented projects to improve the local economy and prosperity of Thai society in the long run, with a key focus on education, skills development, food safety and access, and innovation management. As Thailand's largest retail employer, it also hires staff from the vulnerable and disabled communities. This fully integrated foundation may differentiate CPALL from other grocery retailers and support its business expansion further.

G: EXCELLENT

CPALL has revised corporate standards and regulations to address climate change more. The company manages the business for sustainable growth, reducing risks, and enhancing transparency. It also treats shareholders equally and protects their interests by conducting regular activities.
