- Keep BUY, new DCF-based THB44.50 TP from THB42, 17% upside and c.2% yield. Berli Jucker should see improving sales and profit margins for its modern retail and product manufacturing business units. We maintain our forecasts, expecting a 22% core profit growth in 2023. BJC's 2Q23 earnings should also see YoY and QoQ growth.

- Better outlook for Big C Supercenter. We expect BJC's modern retail business or the Big C Supercenter to deliver a better YoY and QoQ performance in 2Q23, on stronger beverage and hard-line product sales in the summer. Several public holidays and the back-to-school period in April-May should secure its food and soft-line product sales and GPM. 2Q23 QTD SSSG may rise to +4-5% YoY vs 1Q23's +1.6%. We like Big C's growing efficiency in product mix and promotional campaign management, which may improve profit margins further. Big C's 25 hypermarkets in tourist destinations have adjusted its product assortments and may attract higher customer traffic, especially in 2H23F. BJC maintained its new store opening plans, including 2-3 hypermarkets, five supermarkets, 7-8 wholesale stores, and c.200 Big C Mini stores. 1Q23 rental income may gradually rise 6% YoY and 2% QoQ to THB2.35bn, with a flattish 88% YoY occupancy rate excluding additional space and back-to-normal rental rate discounts for tenants. We believe the ongoing major renovations for eight stores and store refresh for 15 stores will support rental income expansion in 2H23F.

- Seeing lower costs for non-Big C businesses. Thailand's re-opening has benefitted the topline of BJC's packaging and consumer product businesses. The latter's launches of new products for existing brands, more private label items in Big C stores, and white-label products in traditional trade channels should support its 2Q23 outlook. We also expect easing energy and raw material prices (palm oil, coconut oil, paper pulp, and recycled paper) to support manufacturing GPM momentum in 2Q-3Q23.

- Maintain forecasts. Our 2023F core earnings are THB6.07bn (+22% YoY) or 81% of 2019's numbers. We expect 2Q23F earnings growth YoY and QoQ. The continued use of tax credits among BJC's subsidiaries should also keep its overall effective tax rates low (2022: 7%) and act as a potential upside to 2023 earnings.

- ESG framework update. As there is now greater focus on the E pillar due to critical climate change issues, we tweaked our ESG weightage. We now assign a weightage of 50% to the E pillar, followed by 25% each to the S and G pillars. Further details are in our 2 May thematic research note Envisioning a Better Future. BJC's ESG score is now 3.0 (from 3.2) and we apply a 4% discount (from 2%) to derive our rolled-over THB44.50 TP (DCF) for the 12-month investment horizon. BJC still trades at an undemanding 25x FY23F P/E (c.-1SD). Big C Supercenter's planned re-listing (likely at end 2023) is a catalyst.
