- Maintain SELL and THB3.50 TP, 19% downside and >5% yield. Several industry experts believe the low-end condominium market (<THB3m/unit) will turn around from its trough. They see this segment as the best substitute candidate for the low-end townhouse market during the current transition period. Despite the market optimism, LPN Development continues to underperform in terms of boosting condominium presales. It is also lagging other developers in terms of earnings resumption.
- Recently, all three influential associations related to the residential sector agreed that the low-end condominium segment will see a recovery due to the: i) Substitution effect and ii) preference shift from low-rise to condominium projects when the pandemic tames down and concerns over major flooding accelerate. LPN's presales performance has not reflected this industry trend. Contrary to other leading players, the company's 3Q22 condominium presales declined to THB1.3bn (-13% YoY, -31% QoQ) and, while 9M22 condominium presales grew 14% YoY to THB4.76bn, this was vs FY21's low base. The explanation: Three condominium projects launched YTD have shown weak presales. Although one was launched under the new 168 brand, ie Place 168 Pinklao, this project currently commands only 9% presales since its May launch. Under the 168 banner, there will be two other 168 condominium projects launched before end 2022: i) Ville 168 Bang Wa (to be launched by end October) and ii) Park 168 On Nut 19 (to be launched within 4Q22). Nevertheless, we do not expect these two projects to show outstanding post-launch presale rates.
- Low-rise project presales still at a slow pace. LPN's low-rise project presales have not been so strong YTD, as 3Q22 low-rise presales of THB698m (+8% YoY, -4.8% QoQ) stayed sideways at the <THB1bn level. Since the start of 2022, only one townhouse project under the Venue 168 brand has been launched – with softened presales. The other two Venue 168 townhouse projects will be launched within this year as planned. A Residence 168 single-detached house project is postponed to FY23.
- Another weak quarter expected for 3Q22. We expect a 3Q22 net profit of THB98m (+271% YoY, -33% QoQ). Core revenue has to rely on the completed inventory units from Lumpini Place Taopoon Interchange worth c.TH200m while two newly completed projects are set to deliver THB100m in total topline contributions. GPM should increase to 26.2% in 3Q22 from 25.8% in 2Q22 – in tandem with higher average unit prices – while LPN stringently controls major expenses.
- Based on our proprietary methodology, we derive an ESG score of 2.9 on LPN, which is below the country median. Accordingly, we apply an 8% ESG discount to our TP and roll it over based on 7.6x FY23F P/E. This derives our THB3.50 TP. Keep SELL.
