Upbeat On China's Golden Week; Still O/W

- Maintain OVERWEIGHT; Top Picks: Airports of Thailand (AOT), Minor International (MINT). China's Golden Week holiday in early October, and the upcoming high season for travel should strongly support the number of tourist arrivals into Thailand, and act as catalysts for the sector. These factors should also strengthen most tourism stocks' 4Q24F earnings, to help deliver favourable YoY and QoQ expansions.
- Chinese tourist numbers could double during Golden Week. According to media reports, the Tourism Authority of Thailand (TAT) projects 132,000-180,000 Chinese tourist arrivals into Thailand (57-144% YoY growth) and THB3.71-5.18bn worth of tourism receipts (58-121% YoY growth) during the Golden Week holiday on 1-7 Oct 2024. There will be 1,097 direct flights from China to the kingdom (+70% YoY) during the period, while AOT expects total passengers at Bangkok's Suvarnabhumi Airport to hit 200,000/day (FY24 YTD average: c.165,000/day).
- Long-haul destinations seeing more bookings. Data from China's largest online travel agency Trip.com found that while the top destinations for Chinese travellers during Golden Week are still countries within Asia, it has seen a major shift towards long-haul destinations this year, especially to Australia, the US, New Zealand, the UK, France, and Spain. Digital travel platform Agoda recorded a 137% YoY jump in overseas accommodation searches from China, with Bangkok ranked fourth among top spots, while data from Forwardkeys showed that the number of flight bookings from China to Thailand during the period surged 250% YoY.
- Outlook still positive. We still expect stronger Chinese tourist arrivals to Thailand during this year's Golden Week compared to last year, despite sluggish economic conditions and the THB's appreciation against the CNY. The post-pandemic rise in outbound travel and Thailand's visa exemption for Chinese tourists should also support tourist arrivals. Top beneficiaries would be AOT and pure hotel plays like The Erawan Group. Both companies have c.16% contribution from Chinese customers. MINT's hotels in Europe and the Oceania region may also partially benefit from the rising trend of Chinese travellers heading to long-haul destinations during the period. The peak travel season in 4Q24F-1Q25F should also be a near-term sector catalyst.
- Maintaining our international visitor forecasts. We maintain our view that the monthly tourist numbers have bottomed out in September, and will ramp up MoM during 4Q's high travel season. We expect a total of 2.72m foreign visitors in Oct 2024 (+24% YoY, +5% MoM), 9.4m in 4Q24 (+17% YoY, +8% QoQ), and 35m in 2024 (88% of 2019's levels). Combined full-year tourism receipts are expected at THB3trn (2023: THB2trn).
- AOT and MINT remain our Top Picks. We like AOT's improving international air traffic numbers and the upcoming peak travel period in 1HFY25F (Sep). MINT is attractive for its strong hotel operational performance, improving leverage, and undemanding valuations.
